Connecting People Through Art

The In-Definite Arts Society is a creative arts centre that provides community based programs for people with developmental disabilities. Committed to increasing awareness of the talents and diversity of the disabled community, In-Definite Arts promotes the values of respect, inclusion and creativity through involvement in the arts, by connecting artists with artists and the community.

Matthew Carberry: Matthew's illustrative artwork focuses on ideas of character design and development, applying traditional artistic principles to contemporary narratives.
